Talent Lofty Ambitions

The Brooklyn Museum of Art—now celebrating its centennial—is going grass-roots by opening its neo-classical doors to the loft-dwellers who have turned the nearby waterfront into an artistic hotbed. Current Undercurrent: Working in Brooklyn includes major pieces by 50 up-and-coming Brooklyn artists, including Margaret Curlls (above), Rozzy Paize, Fred Tomaselli, and Amy Sillman, who were selected with the help of avant-garde galleries Pierogi 2000, Momenta Art, and Arara. (Through January 25, 1998.)
